Overview

This panel provides a preview into the data that is being extracted and transformed, allowing users to see the exact impact being made on the data in real time. Changes can also be made directly to data transformation rules through this panel, such as column renaming, data type conversions, or transforming the values in a field. Note: This panel has a maximum limit of 200 values. Although that's all the user would be able to see here, transformation would be done on all the values existing in the configured data source, when performing a full transformation.
